VOTER GUIDE · PORTLAND · NOV 3, 2026

Who we'd rank.

Seven people who stand up for renters, city services and police accountability, and whose donors don't fund Republicans.

Ballots due 8 pm Tuesday, Nov 3 whosbuyingpdx.com

YOUR CHEAT SHEET

Fill in your ballot like this.

City Council · District 3

3 SEATS · RANK UP TO 6

Tiffany Koyama Lane
Rank 1st or 2nd, either order

(1) (2) 3 4 5 6

Angelita Morillo
Rank 1st or 2nd, either order

(1) (2) 3 4 5 6

Esther León
Rank 3rd

1 2 ● 4 5 6

Steve Novick
Wild card: if you rank him, rank him last

1 2 3 (4) 5 6

DON'T RANK

~~Torres~~ ~~42%~~

City Council · District 4

3 SEATS · RANK UP TO 6

Mitch Green
Rank 1st

● 2 3 4 5 6

Jamey Evenstar
Rank 2nd

1 ● 3 4 5 6

Jeremy Beausoleil Smith
Rank 3rd

1 2 ● 4 5 6

DON'T RANK

~~Zimmerman~~ ~~49%~~

~~Arnold~~ ~~45%~~

~~Clark~~ ~~35%~~

Multnomah County Chair

1 SEAT · RANK UP TO 6

Shannon Singleton
Rank 1st

● 2 3 4 5 6

DON'T RANK

~~Brim-Edwards~~ ~~42%~~

% = share of named donors who also gave to Republicans or Portland conservatives. See the next page.

BEFORE YOU RANK ANYONE ELSE

Don’t rank them.

Business-backed candidates whose donors also fund Republicans. Anyone you rank can end up with your vote.

Kellie Torres
City Council · District 3

42%
92 of 219 donors

DON’T RANK

Eric Zimmerman
City Council · District 4

49%
141 of 288 donors

DON’T RANK

Eli Arnold
City Council · District 4

45%
108 of 239 donors

DON’T RANK

Olivia Clark
City Council · District 4

35%
111 of 320 donors

DON’T RANK

Julia Brim-Edwards
Multnomah County Chair

42%
207 of 489 donors

DON’T RANK

Wild card · District 3

Steve Novick: if you rank him, rank him last.

He voted for the ban on masked officers, but sided with the business bloc on 52 of 79 split votes, and 26% of his named donors also gave to Republicans or Portland conservatives.[34]

% = share of each candidate’s named individual donors since 2023 who also gave to Republican campaigns or Portland conservatives. Method and receipts: whosbuyingpdx.com/receipts.html[35]

Rank the people you want to win. Then stop.

Your first choice comes first.

Ranking someone 2nd or 3rd never hurts your 1st choice.

Your vote keeps working.

If your first choice wins or is knocked out, your vote moves to your next choice.

Leave the rest blank.

Anyone you rank can end up with your vote. It’s fine to rank one, two or three people.

One bubble per column.

Don’t give two people the same rank. Council districts elect three people; the Chair race elects one.

RANK
1 or 2

Tiffany Koyama Lane

WHY RANK HER

A Portland public school teacher for 16 years, Tiffany is the first Asian American woman elected to Portland City Council. When the new council first met, her colleagues unanimously elected her its first vice president.[1] She led the city's Vision Zero work to end traffic deaths,[2] added family and relationship structure to Portland's civil rights protections,[3] and went through the budget line by line to save 14 tree permitting jobs.[4]

"the socialist councilor we most trust to reach across whatever constitutes an aisle"

— WILLAMETTE WEEK[5]

RANK
1 or 2

What Tiffany has done

Vision Zero. Reconvened the city's Vision Zero task force[36] and co-led dedicating a quarter of the transportation fee to Vision Zero and sidewalks. Passed 9–3.[37]

No turn on red. Co-led no-turn-on-red rules on the city's most dangerous streets. Passed 12–0.[38]

Every family. Added family and relationship structure to the civil rights code. Passed 11–0.[3]

Trees. Restored $3.2 million for urban forestry and tree permitting, keeping 14 staff.[1][2][4]

No secret data-center deals. Lead sponsor of the resolution against data-center NDAs. Adopted 11–0.[39]

Steady hands. Helped guide the council when the Trump administration tried to send National Guard troops to Portland.[4]

ENDORSED BY

Willamette Week (#2) and the Portland Mercury (#2)[5], Sierra Club[6], Portland DSA[7] and Portland for All[8]

RANK
1 or 2

Angelita Morillo

WHY RANK HER

Angelita got her start answering Portlanders' calls in Commissioner Jo Ann Hardesty's office.[9] On the council she wrote the ban on rent-setting software that lets landlords coordinate prices,[10] passed a fee on landlords who lease to detention facilities,[11] and moved $2.5 million into non-police crisis response and violence prevention.[12]

Renters first

Crisis help without police

Protecting immigrant neighbors

RANK
1 or 2

What Angelita has done

Renters. Lead sponsor of the ban on rent-setting software that lets landlords coordinate prices. Passed 8–2.[40]

Crisis response. Moved $2.5 million from councilor security to Portland Street Response, CHAT, Ceasefire violence prevention and summer programs.[12]

Detention facilities. Lead sponsor of the fee on landlords who lease to detention facilities. Passed 9–2.[41]

Privacy. Created the city's Data and Privacy Office with Councilor Novick. Passed 12–0.[42]

Street Response. Co-sponsored the call to make Portland Street Response an equal branch of first response. Adopted 10–2.[43]

Fair elections. Won $825,525 for Small Donor Elections.[44]

More homes. Lead sponsor of the push to speed up Inner Eastside rezoning (12–0)[45] and co-led design review reform with Councilor Zimmerman (11–0).[46]

ENDORSED BY

the Portland Mercury (#1)[5], Sierra Club[6], Portland DSA[7] and Portland for All[8]

RANK 3rd

Esther León

WHY RANK HER

A physical therapist who works with people in Oregon's prisons,[15] Esther is running to make Portland Street Response a 24/7 service, build social housing, and favor supportive housing over overnight-only shelters.[16]

"life doesn't have to be this way"

— ESTHER LEÓN[56]

24/7 Street Response

Social housing

Clean energy money for clean energy

Holds a doctorate in physical therapy and teaches at the community college level.[16] Wants Blazers arena money to come with a guaranteed return for the public.[17]

ENDORSED BY

Sierra Club[6] and Portland for All (#3)[8]; honorable mention from the Portland Mercury[5]

RANK
1st

Mitch Green

WHY RANK HIM

An economist and Army veteran,[18] Mitch put $17.5 million in unspent housing money toward Portland's first social housing loan fund,[19] restored fair wages for city contract workers,[20] and stood up for the voter-approved Preschool for All tax.[4]

"permanently affordable housing built for people, not portfolios"

— MITCH GREEN[37]

RANK 1st

What Mitch has done

Social housing. Co-led "Keep Portland Housed": $17.5 million for the city's first social housing loan fund, plus $9 million in rent assistance and $1.9 million for eviction defense. Passed 8–3.[47]

Fair wages. Restored the fair wage policy for city janitorial, security and parking contracts. Passed 12–0.[20]

Renters. Co-introduced the ban on rent-setting software. Passed 8–2.[40]

Following the money. Lead sponsor of the resolution forcing records and an oversight hearing on unspent housing funds. Adopted 8–4.[48]

Labor peace. With Councilor Zimmerman, called off the city's planned unfair-labor-practice complaint against its AFSCME union. Adopted 12–0.[49]

Public market. Won $1 million for the James Beard Public Market.[44]

Police accountability. Voted to keep $10 million in the oversight office voters created.[14]

ENDORSED BY

the Portland Mercury (#1)[21], Sierra Club[6], Portland DSA[7] and Portland for All[22]

RANK
2nd

Jamey Evenstar

WHY RANK HER

Jamey spent a decade on City Hall staff,[23] working on tenant protections and the Rose Lane bus projects for Commissioner Chloe Eudaly and helping set up Portland's new form of government. A mother of five who rides transit every day.[21]

"could hit the ground running right away"

— PORTLAND MERCURY[21]

Tenant protections

Faster, cheaper transit

Making the new government work

Most recently chief of staff to Councilor Candace Avalos.[21]

ENDORSED BY

the Portland Mercury (#2)[21], Portland for All[22], Sierra Club[6], Street Trust Action Fund[24] and Building Power for Communities of Color[25]

RANK 3rd

Jeremy Beausoleil Smith

WHY RANK HIM

A construction manager who builds projects for Portland State University,[26] Jeremy is running on a renters' bill of rights, Portland Street Response around the clock, and a publicly controlled power grid.[27]

"I'll fight to lower costs and make life easier."

— JEREMY BEAUSOLEIL SMITH[26]

Renters' bill of rights

24/7 Street Response

Public power

The Mercury praised his "passion and clear values."[21]

ENDORSED BY

Portland for All (#3)[22] and PSU's faculty union[28]; honorable mention from the Portland Mercury[21]

RANK
1st

Shannon Singleton

WHY RANK HER

A social worker who has spent her career on housing, Shannon led the nonprofit JOIN[29] and was interim director of the county's homeless services office.[30] As a commissioner she won money for eviction defense lawyers and fair-housing investigations,[31] and got the stalled Walnut Park redevelopment moving.[32]

"I want to serve where I can make the most change."

— SHANNON SINGLETON[33]

RANK
1st

What Shannon has done

Eviction defense. Won county money for eviction defense lawyers, legal help at the courthouse and peer navigators.[31]

Fair housing. Added $128,000 for fair-housing investigations in East County.[31]

Summer jobs. Helped add 57 more youth to the county's SummerWorks program.[31]

Walnut Park. Got the stalled Albina redevelopment moving.[32]

Keeping people housed. Her office runs the county's Eviction Prevention Table.[50]

ENDORSED BY

the Portland Mercury[32], Portland for All, Portland Association of Teachers and Sierra Club[33]

RETURN YOUR BALLOT

Due by 8 pm, Tuesday, Nov 3.

Drop it off

Any official drop box until 8 pm on election night. Find one at multco.us/dropsites.

Or mail it by Oct 27

No stamp needed. Ballots postmarked by Nov 3 count if they arrive within 7 days.

Check it counted

Track your ballot at multco.us/info/track-your-ballot.

Share this guide. Text it to three friends in Portland. Scan or visit whosbuyingpdx.com/guide.html

People-powered, not donor-powered.

We recommend candidates who stand up for renters, city services and the police accountability office voters created, and whose donors don't overlap with Republican campaigns.

Our council picks run on small gifts: 95–98% of their small-donor gifts were $100 or less, through the city's Small Donor Elections program. We checked every named donor against Oregon campaign finance records. The method is on our Receipts page.

This guide is independent. No candidate, campaign or committee asked for it, paid for it or reviewed it.

Get all the facts from this site delivered to your inbox.

whosbuyingpdx.com/guide.html

Who's Buying PDX is an independent citizen project. Not paid for or authorized by any candidate, campaign or committee. Built for under $20. Every claim in this guide is sourced at whosbuyingpdx.com/guide.html.